Good News for Sheep

Farmers
The well-known Veterinary Surgeon
Mr Robert Hall, M.R.C.V.S Inventor and Sole Manufacturer of the popular
HALL'S SHEEP DIP
Having determined to introduce this valuable Composition into general use in the Argentine Republic, has appointed Messrs Barnett & Co.
his Agents for the River Plate.
This Dip is preferred to all others in Australia and New Zealand, where it has successfully stood a competitive trial for many years.
The inventor claims for this Dip the following advantages:-
1st-It is instantly and completely soluble
in either warm or cold water.
2nd-It is not poisonous to the effects on Wool or Sheep, and healing to all Sores on the Skin.
3rd-It is a certain preventive, and perfect
cure for SCAB.
4th-It most effectually destroys Red Lice, Sheep Ticks, Maggots and every other kind of Parasite found on Sheep and Cattle.
5th-It is acknowledged by all who have used it to be the best composition known for improving the quality and promoting the growth of the Wool.
6th-The Dip is invaluable for protecting the Sheep from the attacks of Flies and Maggots.
This Dip has been imported into this country by some large Sheepfarmers already, and used in preference to any other for some years back; but it is only lately an Agent has been appointed.

Important
This Dip is guaranteed to be manufactured only by this Inventor in England, and is of course very superior to the many Dips made in this country.

Deutsches Adressbuch

Um vielen an mich ergangenen Anforderungen zu entsprechen, habe ich mich entschlossen, das, nehmend in 1879 veröffentlichten Kalender, angesehene Adressbuch in neuer, reichhaltiger und verlässlicher Aus-gabe heraus zu geben.
Ich erlaube mir daher die ergebene Bitte
an alle in Buenos Aires wohnenden Deutsche, Schweizer, Holländer, Belgier, Dänen, Schweiden, Russen, kurz an alle Deutschlebende, mich bei diesem Unternehmen durch freund-liche Aufgäbe neuer Adressen und Berichtungen von Fehlern, die sich in meinen letzten Kalender eingeschlichen haben, zu unterstützen.
Da meine 79 Adressbuch an fast allen Com-partimen und in den meisten Familien ein stetes Handbuch geworden ist, seine Nützlichkeit also sehr zum Genuß derer, die es haben, darf ich wohl die feste Hoffnung zu setzen, dass mein Büchlein von Allen sehr geschätzt werden wird.
So nur dürfte es möglich sein, das Büchlein
in einer neuen Ausgabe zu veröffentlichen.
Die Aufnahme aller Adressen ist selbstver-ständlich gratis, und der Name, der die nützlich-sten Geschäftsführer, Gewerbetreibenden etc.
daraus erwählt, wenn ihre Namen und Adres-sen richtig aus diesem Buche zu erhalten sind, braucht wohl nicht erst aus einander gesetzt zu werden.

CARDINAL MANNING ON THE IRISH LAND QUESTION.

The representatives from Ireland who waited on Friday last upon Mr. Manning with regard to the position of the labourers in Ireland as they would be affected by the clause of the Land Bill already passed and those to be brought before Parliament, had an interview with Cardinal Manning on Saturday. The delegation consisted of Fathers Kennedy, Kilmeedy, and Linder, Mr. Upton (who represented the working class), Mr. Enright (a farm labourer from Limerick), and others.

In reply to members of the delegation, who spoke in the same sense in which they recently addressed the Chief Secretary for Ireland, Cardinal Manning expressed his pleasure in seeing them. He said his heart had always been with the labourer. He heartily approved of the Labourers' Union, and gave it his encouragement in every possible way. Every class had a perfect right to associate itself with others for that which was for the common interests. He had always felt too that what were called trades unions were most legitimate associations for the protection of the common interests of the men. He had also felt, and had written and published his opinions, that the Land League, keeping within the limits of the law, human and divine, was a lawful association, and would never have one word of disapproval from his lips. He limited his words most carefully, because his duty at any cost was to speak the truth. He believed that in the action of their good and faithful bishops and clergy, and particularly of the Archbishop of Cashel had lately spoken with such great force and measure, there was now a prevailing interest to guide and direct the association of the Land League into a safe path. As soon, therefore, as he heard that there was a deputation of Irish labourers coming to England, and that they wished to see him, he responded with the greatest pleasure. The state of the labourers in England, as well as in Ireland, had been the subject of his most earnest sympathy. He knew that so far as regarded the Irish Land Bill it could not deal effectually with the question of the labourer, and that there had been some disappointment that the labourer was not more closely identified with it. He was no politician, and had no relations with the Government whatever. He spoke as an independent pastor of the Church, but he knew that the Bill was so large and so complicated that it would be impossible in it to deal minutely with so awkward a subject as that of the labourer. Therefore it was better that the subject of the labourer should be a matter entirely reserved for the future. He agreed with many of the speakers who had addressed him, and thought that they ought to apply to have a Royal Commission issued for the purpose of taking evidence on the state of the labourers alone, the landlords had had their Commissioners, and he thought that a Royal Commission for inquiry into the treatment of the labourer might enable the Government to deal with the question in the next Session of Parliament. He did not like to enter into questions of political economy, but there were certain things which he would say. First of all, it was quite obvious that a certain amount of land was necessary if a man was to live by it, and live on it as a farmer; he would not attempt to fix what the quantity ought to be, as it varied according to conditions of soil and the climate. But there ought to be a minimum under which men would not be allowed to be tenant-farmers, because there would not be enough produce for the maintenance of themselves and their families. Every labourer ought, first of all to have a house. He did not think that what had been described to him by Mr. Enright as his dwelling was a house. There were such dwellings even in England. When the Land Commission was in full exercise of its powers, or when there could be local county government administered on a very large scale, there would, he hoped, be some sanitary commission emanating from the Land Commission, so that they would not have to wait for a new Session of Parliament. The sanitary commission should go all over Ireland, and do what they had done in England and do what the existence of such houses was not fit for habitation. There should be a law to compel those who possessed an interest in the land to provide under certain conditions proper houses for the labourers. He would further say that there ought not to be a labourer in Ireland who did not possess with his house, however little, an allotment of land, and if possible a garden. If the conditions of the place in which he lived should not make this possible the same purpose might be accomplished by an arrangement such as existed in England of allotments, which all labourers not directly attached to the labourers' houses, belonged to them as fully as if they were. Thus the labourer might be enabled to maintain himself and family in a proper state. It appeared to him that there were three questions absolutely requiring due consideration, viz. the of housing, allotments, and the rate of wages. Without going into questions of political economy, his belief was that there was not a mouth in Ireland that might not be fed, not a single hand in Ireland that might not be occupied, and although he might heartily approve of emigration as a means of reducing the pressure of population, he did not wish to see one man leave Ireland until the soil of the country had been completely and fully tilled. The end he had in view was to admit the largest possible number of the people of Ireland to their proper share in the soil of their country. He believed in the existence of a peasant proprietorship upon the largest possible scale; the creation of a class which in England was called a yeoman class. He was sorry that the yeoman was rapidly disappearing. What was really wanted in Ireland was the creation of that class which was known in England as the yeoman class, living on their own land. He believed that Mr. Gladstone's Bill would be by far the most complete and the most efficient mode of attaining that end. No statesman in our lifetime had ever proposed anything approaching to it. That which was called the three F's would, he believed, be obtained in the end. No doubt it would not be obtained without difficulty, but he would ask his good friends in Ireland not to oppose the Bill. Let them stand by their Bishops and keep together. The Church had always been the mother of the poor, and it must be to the end of time. He believed that peace and happiness would come for Ireland and her Catholic people if they all held together as one man and worked shoulder to shoulder with their Bishops and priests. There never was a time in the history of Ireland when she was so united, so complete as one common people as now, there never was a time in the history of Ireland when she had so much wealth as now, poor as she might be; there never was in the history of Ireland a time when the Catholic population off Ireland possessed so much soil, and when the tenants of the soil were so united. He wished that there were more manufacturers in Ireland. There never was a time when the people of Ireland were so well educated as now, or when, to take a test for example, there were so many newspapers. As for himself, he had never ceased by word, or writing in the last few months to do all he could on this land question (loud cheers).

STATE OF IRELAND.

At the Balinglass Petty Sessions, county Wicklow, yesterday, Mr. John Lynch, hotel-keeper, was summoned for unlawfully refusing to entertain Mr. Browning, sub-sheriff of the county, on the 6th of July. The sub-sheriff deposed that on the evening in question he had his luggage taken off the coach and brought into Lynch's hotel, where he usually stopped. He was shown up to his room, but was subsequently told that Mr. Lynch wanted to see him. He went down stairs, and the defendant asked him what brought him to Balinglass, and said he was bound not to entertain him. He was left in the street at twelve o'clock, and was obliged to get the assistance of two constables to bring his luggage to the house of a solicitor, who took him in for the night. In reply to the bench, the defendant said he had no statement to make. The magistrates took the information and returned the case for trial at the assizes, admitting the defendant to bail himself in £20, and two sureties in £25 each.

A man named Welsh was prosecuted yesterday at Balinglass Petty Sessions on a charge of inciting to murder Mr. Laurence Storey, land agent and postmaster of Anghrim. A witness named McQuay swore that on the 14th of May the prisoner asked him whether he would like to get £20 for shooting a man. Being asked who was to be shot, the prisoner said Mr. Storey of Anghrim. The witness became afraid, and communicated with the police. The prisoner was committed for trial at the Galway Assizes.

A young man named Martin Spellman was arrested yesterday at Cranghwell, county Galway, under the Protection Act, being reasonably suspected of posting threatening notices. Michael Glennan, Thomas and John Jennings, and John Kelly, farmers, were arrested at Loughrea yesterday under the same Act.

A clever seizure of arms was made by the police at Castlerock, county Koscannon, on Friday. Two constables, named Harris and Connor, on duty near the railway station, observed a carman carrying an ordinary box, consigned to Farrell and Co., grain merchants. Their suspicions having been excited, they seized the box, and on opening it found that it contained a number of Colt's revolvers.

At Tullamore Assizes on Friday Captain L'Estrange, R.M., brought under the notice of Chief Justice Morris some observations made by the coroner of the county at a recent inquest reflecting upon the conduct of the police and resident magistrates. He stated that in consequence of those remarks his life was in danger, and he asked whether the Court could not remove the coroner. His Lordship stated that he had no power to do so, but that an application could be made to the Lord Chancellor for an inquiry into Mr. Gowing's conduct. The grand jury desired to mark their condemnation of it by withdrawing a jury, but the coroner's fees; but his Lordship told them they had no power to do so.

HOWARD'S IMPROVED AMERICAN PLOUGHS

The above represents the well known 'Eagle 75' Plough which, and other sizes, are manufactured by J. & F. HOWARD in the highest style of workmanship, and tens of thousands are in use. Several manifest improvements have been introduced. As shown in the engraving, the body clips the beam, and the 'centre draught' is also taken from the strongest part of the iron body, thus giving an additional security against the beam breaking at the bolt holes—a very common occurrence with American made Ploughs.
The beam is made of Oak, and can if required be fitted with a steel plate on each side.
The shares are hardened upon J. & F. HOWARD'S well known patented water-chill process, which renders them not only tough and hard, but ensures their wearing better and longer than made when by any other process.
Prices of the various sizes, Nos. 19, 19 1/2, 25, 26, 55, 75, &c., sent on application.

The above Implements kept in stock by the Principal Hardware Merchants.
